Beautiful Church Wedding For Faye Attwood

Baskets of gladioli and sweet peas banked the altar of the Raymond United Church for the early evening wedding of Faye Anne Attwood and Corp. James Steven Wilson. Rev. Beveridge of the RCAF stationed at Claresholm officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father to the strains of the wedding march played by Marlyn Bacon. She was radiant in a bridal gown of white satin designed with a full skirt with tiers of nylon net and lace inserts. Her jacket was of matching lace as was her headress which held the fingertip veil in place. A white bible with red roses and lily of the valley was carried by the bride during the ceremony.

Arlene Johnson, Renae Rasmussen and Myrna Oslanski, her bridal attendants, wore gowns of yellow, mauve and green and carried bouquets of white carnations. The groom's attendants were the bride's brother, Don Attwood, Richard McKean and Jimmy Attwood with Billy Attwood and Ray Attwood, brother and uncle of the bride, ushering.

Following the ceremony seventy-five relatives and close friends were seated at a luncheon for which the bridal table was adorned by the beautiful cake and multi-colored sweet peas.

As many other friends called at the Legion Hall during the evening to extend their best wishes to the young couple, they were greeted by the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Bill Attwood and the bridal party received the guests under the archway decorated with pink and white streamers. Gladioli and sweet peas were also used around the room to add to the setting. Shirley Solsberg presided at the Guest Book with Grace Moriyama assisted by Lillian Hyashi and Carma Wooley arranging the lovely gifts. A dainty lunch prepared by Mesdames Nemeth, Huszar and Audinaert was served by Necia Holt, Marolyn Bacon, Carlee Attwood and Janice Vanderhilt.

For their honeymoon trip to Seattle the young couple were matching suits of navy and grey. They will make their home at 1323 Walnut St. in Vancouver, B. C. where the groom is stationed.

Nemiscam Notes

Mike Ondrik has been released from the Central Alberta Sanatorium where he has been a patient for several months. Upon his release he and Mrs. Ondrik spent two weeks visiting with relatives in Banff and Lumbrek. They plan on buying a cabin in the foothills, so that when the troubles of farm life begin to worry Mr. Ondrik, he can get away from it all.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Cargill and Gordon of Lethbridge have spent a long week end in the district visiting friends and neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Twell of Spalding, England are visiting in Canada. At present they are staying with Mrs. Twell's uncle, Bert Harrison. They will also visit with Mrs. Twell's brother, Dave Palmer of Warner. They don't like our country at all and are homesick for England, already.

Lightning Strikes Willard Paxman Home

The storm Saturday night brought much needed rain to some, halted harvesting for others, but to one family it caused considerable concern particularly for a few minutes around a quarter to nine.

The Willard Paxmans were spending a quiet evening at home with their family, trying to calm the children's fear of the thunder and lightning by an explanation of it, when suddenly sparks flew from the wall above the curtains in the kitchen and seconds later a deafening clap of thunder was heard. When they hurried to determine what damage had been done they found that the wall-board in the back hall had been knocked off on the one side and that the door jamb had also been blown off with the nails still in it. The light-bulb above the door had of course been shattered and the porcelain was hanging by a wire.

The lightning had apparently hit a tree in the yard and then bounced to the clothes line, following it to the house.

As frightening as the experience was, they are very thankful that the damage was not greater and especially that no one was hurt.

Descendants of the late I. M. Coombs' enjoyed a Family Reunion on Wednesday with about 53 present for a picnic and meeting at St. Mary's Park. Purse Returned To Mrs. Garron

Mrs. Victor Garron feels that she is a very fortunate person, and rightly so. While waiting for her children at the Theatre the other day she unknowingly dropped her purse containing $150.00, CPR passes and other valuable papers, on the ground. She spent a very worried evening after discovering her loss, wondering whether she would ever see it again. Thanks to the honesty of Marion Tollestrup, who found it, she did. First thing the next morning he called at their home to return this valuable article to Mrs. Garron who expressed her great appreciation and insisted upon his receiving a token of their thanks.

Swimming, picnicking and boating were enjoyed by the First Ward Mutual Tuesday evening when they met at Alkali Lake instead of the Church for their meeting.

School District's Inclusion In County Discussed

A special meeting was held at the Town Hall on Friday, August 13, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of the local School Board making application to the County of Warner, No. 5, to be included in the County. A very slim crowd attended the meeting, a further indication that comparatively few people really care about municipal affairs. Of the 32 people present there were only 13 who were not there as some official or delegate of an organization with the School Board, Town Council and Chamber of Commerce being represented. Two County Councillors were present as well.

The gathering was told by Chairman J. Golden Snow of the School Board, who was also chairman of the meeting, that the Board was negotiating with the County Council and all that was still required was to sign and send the official papers to the County office at Warner. As soon as the County officials receive these documents they publish a notice concerning this inclusion and if 25% of the proprietary electors demand a poll within 21 days a vote is taken on the question.

A number of meetings have been held regarding this question and the County Council has asked all School Districts within the County to join

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Redd, presently of Edmonton, have been greatly concerned the past week or so as their three and a half month old son David fought the dread disease, polio. Very fortunately, after only four days in the hospital at which time he was unable to move his one arm, the opposite leg and the muscle controlling the rib cage, he had improved enough to be allowed to return to his parents and at the present time has regained the use of all muscles.

Mr. and Mrs. Redd are moving down to Magrath next week where he is to teach Seminary.

Friends of the family were saddened recently to hear of the passing of a former resident of Raymond, Mrs. Ellen Dyson, who passed away in a Nanaimo hospital recently at the age of 93. She came from England in 1927 to live with her son Samuel here and after the war she moved to the B.C. city.

MURDER BY INCHES

By Bess Leeke

SAM had to break in the door to reach the body of Mrs. Ambros Creighton. With the door locked from the inside and the only other exit from the room two windows overlooking a sheer drop of 60 feet to the Pacific below, it could only be suicide. She had stood on the chair, looped the rope over the ceiling beam, knotted it around her neck, kicked over the chair and—that was it.

Sam picked up the chair and moved it out of the way. He frowned, grabbed the chair and pushed it under the gently swaying feet. The feet cleared it by four inches.

"I went to call her for lunch," Ambros Creighton had said a few minutes before. "The door was locked and when she didn't answer I called you."

The other members of the household were Mrs. Bernice Smythe, the victim's middle-aged sister, and Eric and Freida Smythe, Mrs. Smythe's thirty-year-old son and twenty-six year old daughter.

Joy Burton was waiting for him in the hall when Sam came out and closed the door. "It's all right to say Mrs. Creighton committed suicide?"

"No," he told the pretty reporter. "It isn't suicide."

When he questioned Mr. Creighton, Mrs. Smythe, Eric, and Freida he learned Ambros and Mrs. Smythe had both been in the house at the time of the "suicide." Eric had been out in the garage tinkering with his car. Freida had driven into town earlier and returned just before Ambros called the police.

Letting them believe, for the present, it was suicide, Sam drew Joy aside and asked, "What do you know about these people?"

"Well," she answered, "The money all belonged to Mrs. Creighton, inherited from her first husband. The others are poor relations, so to speak."

"It's rumored that Mr. Creighton has been seeking other interests at a certain apartment building up-town."

"Mrs. Smythe, a widow, has fallen for some man with no money and not much reputation. Her sister didn't approve."

"Well, Eric is quite a gambler. He made a trip to Las Vegas a few weeks ago. Since then he's been seeing a big-time gambler."

"Freida and her aunt have never gotten along amiably. She's gone in for sports a good bit—tennis, golf—"

Sam asked thoughtfully, "What about swimming?"

"I don't know."

"You get on the phone and find out if any one of them, Creighton or any of the Smythes are good swimmers or divers. I'll be back in a minute," he told her.

Sam met her in the hallway later with a bundle under his arm.

"What did you find out?"

"In his day, about thirty years ago, Mr. Creighton did some swimming. Mrs. Smythe doesn't go in for it at all. Eric is the bathing beach type swimmer but Freida won a swimming contest about three years ago."

"What about diving?"

"She won second place a couple of times in high diving—Sam, you aren't thinking—"

"That I am! Want to come along and hear?"

"You bet."

"I couldn't have killed her," Freida cried. "The door was locked from the inside. I wasn't even here."

"You did leave the estate, but walked back, came through the back, knocked her out, locked the door, hanked her, then kicked over the chair. You dived out the window, swam around to the beach and your car, dressed, then drove back."

"That's crazy. It's 60 feet or more to the water," she screamed.

Sam held up the bundle, "A wet bathing suit, cap, and towel in the trunk of your car and your high diving record—that and four inches make you a murderer."

"Sam, darling, you're wonderful," Joy beamed.

SCHOOL DISTRICT'S INCLUSION

on an even basis — most inclusion agreements with larger units have held a special tax levy against the smaller Districts to cover present inclusion agreement was partly due, locally, to the fact that the County Councillors felt that the land to the south of this District should have belonged to the District for taxation purposes even before the County was formed.

If Raymond School District applies, and is accepted, for inclusion into the County it will have one permanent member of the School Committee on the County — this is due to the large proportion of population in this area. The other Districts are represented on the Committee by alternating members — the committee is made up of four members of the County Council and three representatives from the various School Districts.

A discussion concerning population showed that Raymond has about 40% of the school enrollment in the County with about 900 students. The total population of the County is 5,337 with Raymond's population being 2465.

A lengthy discussion on mill rate was held with the question of lowering taxes being uppermost in minds of many. There is no definite promise of any lower taxes, but a distinct possibility, but it was brought out that in all probability the inclusion would cushion the sharply rising costs of education. The present rate of taxation in the School District is 43 mills. St. Mary's Division has a rate of 35.5 mills and the rate for the County this year will be set at 34 mills. The tax rate for the Town of Raymond may be slightly higher than the rest of the County.

The contract for inclusion was read by Secretary Wm. A. Anderson and a great discussion was held on the general question with the suggestion being made that the County Council be increased to 11 men so that another representative could be placed on the Committee from this area. This proposal was deleted from the motion that finally was passed unanimously that the School Board make application for inclusion of the Raymond School District into the County of Warner No. 5.

A gay evening was enjoyed by Loretta Heggie, Elaine Judd, Eugene Viola, Glenda Pack, Marolyn Kiddle, and Terry Smith as they played Run Sheep Run and similar games after the welner roast.

On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Dean Rolfsen and family left for a few days holiday in Great Falls and a trip over the beautiful Pass.

Last year Canada's leading imports were automobile parts, farm implements, crude petroleum, electrical apparatus, petroleum products, coal, rolling mill products, engines and boilers, aircraft and parts, fruits, autos, cotton products and wool products.

U K Sub-Postmasters at their annual conference in Scarborough this month, urged restoration of flogging (abolished in 1948) as a deterrent to crimes of violence. Resolution was moved by Mr. Arthur Findly, of Potters Bar, Middlesex, who described how he and other sub-postmasters had been robbed and beaten by armed thugs.

Subsequent debate brought an interesting suggestion from Mr. J. S. Pollard, member of the executive. Noting "a growing opinion among doctors and psychiatrists that people who indulge in anti-social crime are mentally unstable," he suggested this principle should be accepted.

Parliament should be asked to pass a law that all persons convicted of robbery with violence should be automatically certified as of unsound mind. This would act as a greater deterrent than the threat of the "cat".

With mental hospitals already overcrowded in U K, as in Canada, Mr. Pollard's suggestion is probably impractical. But criminals certainly would fear unlimited commitment to a mental hospital much more than they fear limited commitment to a prison.

But, says he, the only plains he has ever dashed across are those in Southern Saskatchewan, where he was born and grew up. He learned fiddle-playing by ear under old-time fiddlers in the Swift Current district when he was five and by the time he was nine he was playing at country dances. After his school days he organized the "Sons of the West", and had several radio shows. He began arranging and writing music as well, and in 1952 moved to Toronto to perform at Casa Loma, Mart Kenney's Ranch, night clubs, county fairs and on television with Cliff McKay's "Holiday Ranch". Sift together 1 cup sifted flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, and 1 tablespoon sugar. Add ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese. Combine 1 beaten egg and ½ cup milk with 1 tablespoon melted shortening. Add liquid mixture to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened.
